Mitchell casts doubts.

Out of Tune

Joni Mitchell, 71, told the U.K.'s Sunday Times that she refused to let Taylor Swift, 25, play her in the upcoming biopic Girls Like Us. Sniffed the folk singer, "I said to the producer, 'All you've got is a girl with high cheekbones.'"

Major Props

Belieb It

Justin Bieber, 20, topped Forbes' 2014 list of highest-earning celebrities under age 30. The crooner raked in $80 million this year.

A Walking Dead Shocker

Emily Kinney is having a hard time coping with life after Beth. On The Walking Dead's November 30 midseason finale, the actress' character was killed by hospital leader Dawn during negotiations for her release. "I really had no idea it was coming," confesses Kinney, who joined the hit show in 2011. When she finally got the news — just before receiving her script for episode 8 — the star, 29, admits that she "cried." Helping soften the blow: the support of her costars, who organized an outdoor bash (around a campfire!) in her honor. ("I was really trying to soak up everything," says Kinney.) Though she didn't manage to snag anything from the set before she departed, "Norman [Reedus] gave me a turtle shell," the Nebraska native tells Us. "I take it everywhere!"

Kinney plans to keep in touch with "everyone."
